HIGH WATER DURING ONE WEEK OF MARCH CUTS COAL BUSINESS

Lock No. 4 Shipments High But Not as High as They Should Have Been--Much Sand and Gravel Go Up Stream

Owing to high water that stopped entirely the movement of coal along the Monongahela river, the month of March was not a record breaker in the coal trade, but it was the best month for shipments since last June. The total amount of coal that passed through Lock No. 4 during March was 18,979,000 bushels. June's record was slightly more being 19,090,000 bushels.

The coal trade was hampered the greater part of last week by a flood the first, it might be stated that had interferred with work since the first of the month.

Sand and gravel business from down river points continued heavy. There were 65,000 bushels of sand shipped up stream and 133,000 bushels of gravel. There were 767 lockages down and 755 up stream and 405 steamers and 1,564 boats, barges and flats passed up. Of steamers up stream there were 392 and 1,549 boats, barges and flats. The rainfall was 3.22 inches.

Lock No. 4 was not closed the first of the week as notices had been posted it would and for no other reason than the Ohio flood. All the three government boats from the North Charleroi yards, the Slackwater, T. P. Roberts and the Swan are absent on a trip down the Ohio river carrying provisions to flood sufferers. The Slackwater and its crew were to have done the repair work on the inside lock at No. 4 that would have meant temporary closing. The lock will not be closed until the return of this steamer.

Flitters are Busy

Many Families Changing Places of Residence--Charleroi Not Losing Residents

Monday was the sprin gmoving day and "flitters" were busy. One transfer man stated this morning that he had more moving work to do than he knew how to get done, and that the trade was heavier this year than last. Many are changing their residences in the town, but there are few moving away from Charleroi these days. Instead it is understood there are more coming in.

TAKE THE P OUT OF PRINTING

Hence Local Bell Telephone System Has New Name

NEW CENTRAL DISTRICT

Henceforth when a man wishes to write a check for his telephone bill to what is commonly known as the Bell Telephone company he will not have to go through his files and look up his office records to learn just what letters are used in the proper designation of the company. For the name has been changed and one letter of the "C. D. & P. Tel. Co." as it has oftentimes been written, has been erased. "C. D. & P." stands for Central District and Printing.

The letter that has been oslerized from the alphabetical appellation of the busy Bell Telephone company's local system is "P." In official circles the "P" has been standing for "printing." The reason was never very generally known until today when Manager F. B. Burwell at the local office issued a bulletin telling of the change of name. The name is now Central District Telephone Co.

The company was incorporated in 1874 in Pittsburg. That being a central district, the name "Central District" came easy. By special arrangement the company delivered printed messages. Hence the word "printing." At the present time the company isn't in the business of printing and delivering telegrams, that system having been done away by the more recent developments.

The "C. D. & P." established its first central office in Pittsburg on January 1, 1879, and its office in Charleroi on February 8, 1896. The growth of the company since its inception has been astonishing, but then nearly everybody finds a telephone a necessity now. At present there are nearly 200,000 telephones in Central District territory and the whole Bell System includes 7,400,000 subscribers.

TEN PERSONS NOW BEING HELD IN CONNECTION WITH MURDER

California Italian Surrenders Because He "Was Tired of Running Away"

TRAGEDY ON CHRISTMAS

Frank Genoa and Santa Cicero Killed---Trial Expected to Come Up During May Term

Having given himself up because he "was tired running away," Frank Cicero of California was placed in the county jail at Washington Tuesday night in connection with the murder of Santo Cicero and Frank Genoa at California on Christmas morning. His was the tenth arerst.

The tragedy is well remembered. Cicero was found lying in a pool of his own blood at the shop of Charles Darbin early Christmas morning and Frank Genoa was located at his home and sent to a Pittsburg hospital where he later died. Frank Cicero, a brother of the murdered Cicero disappeared with Darbin and others before daylight Chirstmas morning and for a time all trace of him was lost. He was later discovered in Ohio but before he could be arrested he again disappeared.

Tuesday Cicero appeared in California and walked to the office of Attorney Olan Yarnall, and gave h imself up. He was later taken to jail. Cicero had already been indicted by the grand jury and will likely be tried with the other suspects at the May term of court.

Cicero says he has been in Philadelphia most of the time. He has been receiving money from the old country, it is understood to enable him to keep out of reach of the officers.

CLUB BILL DEFEATED

Governor's License Measure Loses in State House

NO VOTE FOR SUFFRAGE

Harrisburg, April 2—By a vote of 111 to 77 in the house it was forcibly demonstrated that no club license bill will be passed at this session. Of all the propesed liquor legislation, none aroused a bigger storm of protest than the one to license the clubs. From the time it was introduced it was evident that it could not pass and some of the influence in favor of the act was quietly withdrawn.

By breaking a tie vote Lieutenant Governor Reynolds saved the woman suffrage resolution from defeat in the senate. Owing to the absence of

THE BENEFICIENT GAS ENGINE.

According to the current issue of Farm and Fireside, hundreds of thousands of gas-engines are now doing their work on farms, which are adding to the joys and comforts of life as well as efficiency in labor.

"In their varied forms these engines are the fairy workmen of the industrial world. The things which they accomplish today for us would, to our ancestors of a century ago, sound more improbable than do the fairy stories of Hans Anderson or our friend Aesop.

"It pumps the water for the house, barns and pastures. It grinds the feed for poultry, pigs, sheep, cattle and horses. It runs the cream separator, the churn and the washing-machine. By its surplus energy while doing these things it runs a dynamo and charges a storage-battery. Current from this battery is used to light the house and barns, to run an electric fan, run the sewing machine, iron the clothes and heat the incubator.

"An engine will shovel the corn and grain, pitch the hay into the barn, bale the hay, shell the corn, run the fanning-mill, milk the cows while they eat the chopped feed which it has prepared. It will even shear the sheep and clip and curry the horses. And, joy of joys to the farm boy it will turn the grindstone.

"These are but some of the chores which it will do about the house and the barns. In the form of a tractor it goes into the fields and plows, tills, seeds. harvests, thresh, shreds and shells, hauls the crop to town, digs ditches and fills ditches, pulls stumps and hedges and rocks, moves buildings, grades and drags the roads.

"In the form of an automobile it brings joy to all the family. At the close of a hard day's work they can climb into the car and spin around the country a good many miles in half an hour or an hour. They are rested, cooled and refreshed far more than had they sat at home. If a repair or some supplies are needed, the car runs into town and back within less time than it would take to bring a team from the field and hitch it to the buggy. And the team goes on with its work. Or, if the driver of the team mustmake the trip they rest while he is gone and he too is rested by the trip."

JUST HENS.

There are hens and poultry, and it should be remembered that there is a distinction as well as a difference between the two. Poultry is what you hear the most about, the various breeds, the bench shows, the fancy records, the amount of money spent by amateurs, who go into the "poultry business." the fancy prices of cocks, pullets and pens of the various breeds with as many points on their combs as a bull moose has on his horns. It is in connection with poultry that you hear about incubators, brooders, philos, patent fountains and feeding troughs, cut bone, ground oyster shell, and the various kinds of fancy menus—"scratch," breakfast cereals, "greens," meat pies, forage and the like That's poultry.

But it is just hens that enables the cold storage people to accumulate millions, and to help the common people solve the problem of living. The plebeian hen, who lays eggs for the family all the week and then furnishes the Sunday dinner when the preacher drops in, is the savior of the nation. She is the one who is furnishing the egg production of the country, both for cooking and throwing. She is hatched in the natural way, in the farm barn, or the piano box backyard coop. or any old way for that matter. All the "scratch" she gets is what she does herself in the barnyard or the garden, and "forage" with her is verbal action instead of a material substantive. Yet withal, like the common people, the common every day hen counts in the aggregate and is so numerous that she overwhelms the country with eggs and incidentally develops the cold storage industry.

It is just hens, not poultry, that really counts in the egg production of the country and in the special dinners when company or the preacher comes.

PICKED UP IN PASSING

"When I was a boy," said a Charleroi resident who is an ardent woman suffragist, "the terms suffragist and suffraget were never heard of. The question was always referred to as 'Woman's Rights,' from the fact that at the beginning of the nineteenth century woman in this land of the free was little better than a chattel, and had practically no more civil rights than a yellow dog. The first movement of the women in this country in the direction of legal recognition as people was for the civil rights for which the men had fought in the revolution and had contended for ever since.

"What is known as the 'Woman's Rights' movement was launched in Seneca Falls, N. Y., in 1848. There a little band of determined women met and formulated a declaration of rights, among which the right to vote was one. What they asked for was the right of women to have personal freedom, to acquire an education, to earn a living, to claim her wages, to own property, to sue and be sued, to make contracts, to testify in court, to obtain a divorce for just cause, to possess her children, to claim a fair share of the accumulations during marriage, to vote.

"Incidentally the right to vote was subordinated to the last, as some of the other rights were pressing. It may be interesting to know that practically all of the rights which the women contended for at the Seneca Falls convention, save the right to vote, have been incorporated into law in the most of the states, and the right to vote has been granted by nine of them.

"For twenty years Julia Ward Howe, author of the "Battle Hymn of the Republic," appeared before each session of the Massachusetts legislature with a delegation of women to demand legal rights in the children they had borne. The law in Massachussets then vested the legal ownership of the child in the father, as it still does in some of the states.

"They say the place for woman is in the home, but what about the 6,000,000 women and girl wage earners which the census shows to be in this country who have no homes? Turkey is a fair example today of a country where woman has no legal rights and there is not a right thinking person who does not advocate the wiping out of that government. No country is really civilized where they degrade the women, and this degradation exists all over this world from the lowest types of the semibarbarous Oriental countries where woman is regarded with never a soul to save, to our own, where we still withold from a portion of our people their God-given rights."

Speaking of woman suffrage L. F. Lybarger, who lectured here Tuesday night, relates how one time the subject was under discussion in a bunch of ward politicans. One of them remarked to the leader:

"Do you think women will have enough intelligence to vote?"

"Well, fellows," said the leader, sizing up the gang, "you know it doesn't take much."

PUBLIC SPEAKING.

And the Necessity For Cultivating the Art of Enunciation.

Speaking is one of those arts which people seem to think are unnecessary to study and learn, and the probability is that most speakers of the kind mentioned are blissfully unaware of their inaudibility. Doubtless their voice resounds comfortably in the empty spaces of their own chest and head, and this prevents them from knowing that it does not penetrate to the auditory apparatus of other people.

To be a lecturer it is not only necessary to know your subject, but the art of enunciation and audible delivery needs to be learned also And the sound of one's voice in one's own ears is a most misleading guide Such people ought to be trained by being made to read or speak from one end of a large room to somebody teaching them at the other end, when they would soon find out that tones which will pass muster in a conversation are useless in a public speech.

In conversation we carelessly slur half our syllables, leaving our interlocutor to guess them from the context, but this will not do in a public speech, where people are too far off to catch the signs Again, a word pronounced in the ordinary English way—of throwing a strong accent on a single syllable and slurring the other syllables—becomes reduced to a mere monosyllable when said in that manner in a large room.—Theosophical Path.

MADE THE CLERKS WORK.

A Senator Wanted Information and Found a Way to Get It.

"Congress makes lots of unnecessary trouble for the government clerks," said a veteran employee, "but the worst case I know of occurred some years ago. A certain senator asked the comptroller of the currency to tell him how much stock a certain man had in a national bank He was informed that such information was regarded as confidential and could not be given out.

"'We'll see about that,' said the senator, who was plainly disappointed and displeased.

"Several days later he secured the passage of a resolution calling upon the secretary of the treasury to furnish the senate with the names and holdings of the stockholders in all the national banks in the country. He really wanted to know only the interest of one man in a bank, but he knew that he couldn't get a resolution of that kind through the senate, so he included the stockholders in all national banks.

"It took the entire force of the comptroller's office several weeks to prepare the information, and when it reached the senate nobody paid any attention to it except the author of the resolution, and he merely looked at the mass of papers only long enough to see about the man he was after and then tossed the papers aside. It was an immense lot of work for nothing."—Washington Star.

A Wonderful Toy.

Perhaps the most wonderful toy in the world is owned by a Russian prince, who lavished a fortune of $60,000 on a mechanical theater. The stage is fitted up with every accessory in the shape of scenery and machinery that modern skill has devised, and the actors are figures as large as life, all dressed as sumptuously and appropriately as their living prototypes. The prince's repertoire covers almost all the most popular operas, and it is only necessary to press a button to set the whole marvelous machinery in motion. The actors make their entry on the stage and play their varied parts with appropriate gesture, while a number of phonographs supply the vocal parts in the voices of the leading operatic singers.

Fair Proof.

"I wonder if she cares for me at all?"

"Has she given you no sign?"

"One. Once I saw her setting the clock back when I came to call."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

Easy.

"The doctors have finally decided what caused Smith's illness."

"Had a consultation, eh?"

"No: autopsy."—Judge.

What is celebrity? The advantage of being known to people who don't know you.—Chambort.

Sugar as a Disinfectant.

A custom has grown up in parts of Europe of burning sugar in sickrooms and has been looked upon as an innocent superstition. Investigations, however, have proved the practice a beneficial and scientific one. Professor Trilbert of the Pasteur institute at Paris demonstrated that burning sugar develops formic acetylene hydrogen one of the most powerful antiseptic gases known. Five grains of sugar in several tests were burned under a glass bell with a capacity of ten quarts. After the vapor had cooled bacilli of typhus, tuberculosis, cholera, smallpox, etc., were placed in the bell in open glass tubes, and within half an hour all the microbes were dead.—Stoves and Hardware Reporter.

An Inspiring Experience.

A lady who must certainly have been related to the late Mrs. Partington recently returned from a seventy day tour of Europe.

To her friends she said with enthusiasm that of all the wonderful things that she had seen and heard she believed the thing she enjoyed most of all was hearing the French pheasants sing the mayonnaise.—Youth's Companion.

HAPPINESS HIS THEME

Lee Francis Lybarger Lectures on Human Interest Subject

TIMELY THOUGHTS TOLD

That the way to enjoy life is to live it, not by any undue excesses in the pursuit of happiness but by common sense existance, was the thought of Lee Francis Lybarger, lecturer, who appeared at the Methodist Episcopal church Tuesday night as one of the Charleroi Citizens' Entertainment course entertainers. His lecture was "How to be Happy." It was a great production and contained mental meat enough for half a dozen lectures.

Obviously, Mr. Lybarger reasoned everybody is searching for happiness, therefore, why not make it a scientifis study. "Intensity of emotion—moderation of action" were the two things given as essential to the entire and proper enjoyment of life. That there are numerous "side issues" to these he admitted and proved what they were.

Health and environment were two things given as necessities. "A man watches or should watch his own health, likewise his environment. If he is dissatisfied with his environment, it was suggested he might first change himself, and then go in to change the community if he still thought it all wrong. "Boost, don't knock," cautioned Mr. Lybarger. If you still find your environment is all wrong and you are all right, get out he said.

Discontentment is a cause of unhappiness. While it is difficult to draw the line between contentment and ambition, Mr. Lybarger said, it is wisdom that a line should be drawn that we be not too contented on the one hand with what we have or in the opposite not too enthusiastically ambitious. The too enthusiastically ambitious. The too enthusiastly working so that he never allows himself time or opportunity to really enjoy the products of his labors and the too contented individual never advances.

Mr. Lybarger is possessed of a wonderful store of knowledge and his deductions on the laws of "worldly happiness" come from long and persistent study. He does not preach for wealth or power, although he says these things might be considered as a means to an end. His is the every-day religion of joy with spiritual conception and belief in good things to come. Mr. Lybarger is a man of attainments and his lecture was certainly enjoyed.

PITTSBURG LAD AND FAIRCHANCE BOXER IN FINAL

Pretty boxing exhibitions were seen at Turner Hall Tuesday evening when local supporters of the manly art held a show. The final was fought by Eddie Wimler of Fairchance and Tish Gallagher of Pittsburg. These two lads hustled things in six rounds of about the prettist ring work that has been seen in the upper Monongahela valley for some time.

Wimler is a good "in" fighter and had a good punch. Gallagher, who is lankier than Wimler is strong on long range boxing. Both men had advantages. If there had been any decision it would have been a draw.

The first exhibition was between the Demarco brothers, lads of 8 and 9 years. They knew how to box and proved it.

Tad Wilson and Lee Morris of North Charleroi battled until the third round when a brother of the latter stopped the bout. Morris was taking considerable punishment.

Brownie Gilmore of Charleroi and T. Shevlin of Pittsburg went at it hammer and tongs for four rounds, when Shevlin quit because of stomach sickness. Gilmore semed to have the best of it.

Rats and Water.

Government experiments show that rats can live an indefinite time without water. Three of the animals were put on a diet consisting of bread, meat and cheese, but no water, and all were alive and well sixty days after the experiment was begun On the fifteenth day one was given an opportunity to drink, but made no attempt to do so. When kept without food, but with water one rat lived three days, and of six rats deprived of both food and water all died within periods ranging from two to five days.—Chicago News

Climate Failed; Medicine Effected

It has been absolutely shown that fresh air and good food do help persons suffering from Tuberculosis. It must be admitted that the climate seldom more than "arrested." So more is needed.

Eckman's Alterative is a medicine for the treatment of Tuberculosis. It conquered this disease in many cases. Often these benefits have been received where the surroundings were not ideal—yet recoveries resulted. Now we argue that Eckman's Alterative should be used in every case of Tuberculosis, in addition to good, nourishing food and fresh air, which we all need. A remarkable case follows:

Weldon, Ill.

"Gentlemen: Through Eckman's Alterative I have been saved from a premature grave. On December 14, 1904, I was taken with Typhoid Pneumonia. My lungs became very much affected; my sputum was examined and Tuberculosis Bacilli were found. On February 22, 1905, I was advised to go to Fort Worth, Texas. While there an abscess in my right lung broke and discharged. I grew worse, and became very much emaciated. My physician informed me that I must go to Colorado as quickly as possible. I left Texas, June 22 and arrived in Canon City, June 3 very feeble. After being there two weeks, my physician informed me that my case was hopeless. Three weeks later I returned home, weighing 103 pounds, the doctor having given me no assurance of reaching there alive.

"On July 14, 1905, I began taking Eckman's wonderful remedy for Consumption. Today I weigh 158 pounds. I am stout and well and can do any kind of work about my grain elevator. I have not an ache nor pain in my lungs, eat well, sleep well, and never felt better."

(Sworn affidavit) ARTHUR WEBB.

Eckman's Alterative is effective in Bronchitis, Asthma, Hay Fever, Throat and Lung Troubles, and in upbuilding the system. Does not contain poisons, opiates or habit-forming drugs. Ask for booklet telling of recoveries, and write to Eckman Laboratory, Philadelphia, Pa., for more evidence. For sale by all leading druggists

Change of Company Name

On April 2nd, 1913, the name of "The Central District & Printing Telegraph Co." (Bell System), was changed to "The Central District Telephone Co."

The former name, which has been in use since the introduction of the printing telegraph in 1874, was not believed to identify the company with the service which it now renders—and, for the convenience of public and company alike, the new name has been adopted.

From the above date all communications should be addressed and all remittances made to The Central District Telephone Co. No change in the present contract or other relations is necessitated.

A Giant Pepys Saw.

King James I. had a gigantic porter eight feet six inches in height, but he was not perfect, being round shouldered, knock-kneed and lame in one foot. Of a similar height was Charles Munster, a yeoman of the Hanoverian guard who died in 1676, and seven years before there was being exhibited in London a Dutchman eight feet nine inches high anent whom in Pepys' diary we find the following entry on Aug. 15, 1669: "Went to Charing Cross to see the great Dutchman. I did walk under his arm with my hat on and could not reach his chin with the tips of my fingers."

Happiness.

If you cannot be happy in one way, be in another, and this facility of disposition wants but little aid from philosophy, for health and good humor are almost the whole affair. Many run about after felicity, like an absent-minded man hunting for his hat while it is in his hand or on his head.

How Careless!

A circus man tells a story illustrating how soft hearted and sympathetic some of the ringmasters are when the acrobats get hurt. The heroine of the story was a girl who did the four horse act, the six horse act, the trapeze and the flying bar, for all of which she received the princely remuneration of $40 a week.

One day she fell forty feet from the trapeze and, landing precipitately and ill advised on her left wrist, broke the bone near the elbow. The ringmaster ran up and sympathized as follows, with certain profane remarks which are here excluded:

"What in thunder do you mean by falling out of that trapeze? I'm a sor, of a gun if some of you giuks don't try to put a crimp into this show every time we lift the tent!"—Popular Magazine.

The Clever Ones.

Griggs—Some men are born great, others achieve greatness. Briggs—Yes; and others simply have the trick of making other people think they're great.

Marrying Her Debts.

It sounds strange to talk of marrying the wife's debts, but that was a common practice in England years ago. It was before the married woman's property act of 1882. In contemplation of law the husband and wife were one, and the husband was that one. Then if the bride owed any debts before marriage they devolved on the newly married husband, and he had to pay the piper. This led to some extraordinary farces being enacted. Women who were overloaded with debts actually got rid of them by marrying some poor bankrupt, imprisoned for debt. These men did not mind whether they were liable for hundreds or thousands, and the "wife" usually paid the "husband" a few pounds for the protection of his name, and then she would snap her fingers at her baffled creditors and gayly set about incurring fresh debts. The law which settled and removed this sort of thing deserves a better title than the colloquial one of "a hass."—London Answers.

Baseball Is Business.

Professional baseball is a business and millions of dollars are invested in it by business men. They make fortunes out of it, but they pay their players higher salaries than 999 out of every 1,000 of them could earn at any other line of work during a similar number of months each year. From a baseball player nothing is required but that he be able to play a good game and keep in condition. Many stars in the old days were able to do little more than sign their names and read big print. A better educated class of men are in the game today, but they are getting more money for their services than they could earn if they followed any one of hundreds of different professions. And remember that many of them stepped right out of college into good paying baseball positions. Could they have done as well financially had they entered banks or tried their hands at the law or medicine?—Ed A. Goewey in Leslie's.

Trouble and a Camera in Cairo.

I perceived that it would be impossible to photograph any of the bazaars of Cairo without very efficient help. By great good fortune I ran across an excellent dragoman a couple of hours later. He could speak English well, and his terms were reasonable. I explained to him what I wanted to do, and he said he could manage it, so I promptly engaged him, and the following afternoon found me again at the bazaars. Here, in spite of almost insuperable difficulties, I secured several good photographs. No sooner had I taken my camera out of its case than I was literally hemmed in by a crowd of curious people, and before the photograph could be taken these had to be kept back and the traffic stopped on either side of the subject being photographed. The difficulties involved may possibly be imagined, certainly not described. Once a native policeman came to my aid, thrashing right and left with a rope end. The ubiquitous small boy, who wears nothing but an abbreviated cotton gown, went off bowling. When the photograph had been taken, everybody wanted baksheesh, and my dragoman had to fight off all those not entitled to a fee. I was glad to pay the men who frequently volunteered to keep the crowds back.—Christian Herald.

THE SIMPLE LIFE.

No Trouble For Australian Aborigines to Break Camp.

An Australian aborigine breaks the monotony of his life by frequent visits to other camps, but his preparations for these holidays have a simplicity about them which must appeal to many a worried housewife. It is thus described by Messrs. Spencer and Gillen in "Across Australia:"

"Apart from ceremonies and dances, the one great break in the monotony of life is paying visits to strange camps. Packing up is not a tedious process. The man simply walks out of camp, carrying his spears, spear thrower, boomerangs and shield; the woman takes the youngest child across her hip, balances a pitchi on her head, and, with one arm round the child and a digging stick in her free hand, she is ready for the road. The girl children and younger women look after the puppies, which are never left behind on guy account, and, when unable to walk, are carried in pitchis like young babies.

"Two minutes at most is all the time required for an aboriginal family to pack up and start and there is no trouble in regard to the house while the owners are away. If any one chooses to occupy it during their absence he can do so, but the owners will see at a glance who has been in possession while they have been away."

The Oldest Order.

What is the oldest order in existence? The claim is made for that of the holy sepulcher. It appears that no date or the name of a founder can be assigned to the Order of the Holy Sepulcher, though there is a legendary tradition that traces its origin to the time of Charlemagne. In the middle of the last century, however, when the Latin patriarchate of Jerusalem was re-established, the office of grand master of the order was transferred to it by Pope Pius IX, who many years later, in 1868, created by statute three ranks of the order—the grand cross, commander and knight. The costume is a white cloak with the cross of Jerusalem in red enamel. The pope himself is grand master of the order.—Westminster Gazette.

Black Under the Eyes Explained.

"In the north country"—so goes the story in "Sun Babies," by Cornelia Sorabja—"in the month of Kartik is worshiped by the women folk the great and terrible god Bhishma. Lighted lamps must be placed at the cross-roads of the village, under the sacred fig tree, at the shrine of Shiva, and one little lighted lamp is sent adrift on a raft in the village tank. When the lamps have burned low it is good to rub the black from the wicks under the eyes. It keeps away the evil one. So that is the reason to this day we women put the black beneath the eyes."

YOUR AMBITION.

Have You a Clear Cut Idea of the Object of Your Desire?

Several years ago, when I filled a position which brought me many visitors each day and many more letters, at the same time, I was overburdened with requests for advice from persons who wished "to succeed," "to accomplish," "to attain." But, as strange as the statement may seem to you, I can truthfully say that not one in a hundred of these earnest seekers was able to state exactly what he or she really wanted.

They were dissatified and discontented and felt the vague urge of unrest pushing them forward to further endeavor and attainment, but it stopped right there. Ninety-nine out of every hundred did not know what they wanted. They asked not only for advice regarding the means of accomplishment and attainment, but also for information as to what they should really desire.

"Silly," you exclaim. Not a bit of it. I venture to say that you—yes, you who are now reading these lines—are not much better off regarding clear cut ideas and ideals. You want and want and want, of course, but just what do you want? Have you a clearly defined idea and a clear cut ideal of the object of your desire? Honor bright now, have you?—William Walker Atkinson in Nautilus.

A Puzzling Trick.

Take a piece of writing paper about three inches square and with a lead pencil, the point of which has been dipped in water, draw a circle, a square, a triangle or any other geometrical figure. Lay the paper carefully on a pan of water, letting it float and leaving the surface dry. Carefully drop water on the surface of the paper until the space within the figure is filled. The moistened pencil lines will keep it from flowing outside the figure. Now place the point of a pin over some point in the figure near the edge. The pin point must penetrate the surface of the water, but must not touch the paper. At once the paper will float around until the pin points directly to the center of the figure. See if you can find out why it does this.

some of the senators the leaders who are engineering the fight for the resolution wanted to postpone final action on it until a later date. This was opposed and a vote to postpone resulted in a tie. Lieutenant Governor Reynolds broke the tie, as he claimed a right to do in this case, and the resolution was postponed until next Monday evening.

The house committee appointed to investigate the sinecures among the employes of the house and senate has reported a plan by which it is claimed a lot of the dead timber can be cut off and save the state $50,000 a year. The committee would abolish the doorkeepers, custodians of the basement, custodians of committee rooms, coat rooms, wash rooms, etc., which have a special employe for each at $6 or $7 a day, and employ two porters to do the whole thing for $3 a day.

An attempt will be made in the senate to restore the old "vest pocket" system of voting at primaries. The elections committee has reported in favor of an act to permit a voter to be given a ballot in an envelope that he can take home and mark. This would be a return to the old system of ward heeling, and would arouse a storm of protest throughout the state if it stands a chance of passing.

SYMPTOMS OF CONSUMPTION
Yield to Vinol.

The medical profession does not believe that consumption is inherited, but a person may inherit a weakness or tendency to that disease.

A prominent citizen of Evansville, Ind., writes: "I was ill for five months with a pulmonary trouble, and had the best of doctors; I had hemorrhages and was in a very bad way. Through the advice of a friend, I tried Vinol and I feel that it saved my life. It is all you recommend it to be. I believe it is the greatest medicine on earth. I have advised others to try Vinol, and they have had the same results." (Name furnished on request.)

Vinol soothes and heals the inflamed surfaces and allays the cough. Vinol creates an appetite, strengthens the digestive organs and gives the patient strength to throw off incipient pulmonary diseases.

Try a bottle of Vinol with the understanding that your money will be returned if it does not help you.

ALBERT SCHOENER WINNER OF RACE

Three mile running race at the Charleroi Rink Monday night was won by Albert Schoener who finished about five feet ahead of his opponent. McGuire held the lead for two miles, when Schoener passed him. The fine outburst of speed of both boys in the last five laps brought much applause from the spectators. The time was 16 minutes and and 30 seconds. These boys will meet in a five mile race soon.

Hospital Wireless.

"A very efficient system of wireless telegraphy exists in every hospital," said the nurse. "Apparently all patients have the knack of transmitting messages; otherwise the news of serious cases would not travel so quickly and accurately from ward to ward. It is contrary to the rules for hospital attendants to retail gossip, and most of them observe strict secrecy, yet notwithstanding that precaution there is never an interesting case in the building whose history is not known and discussed in the remotest corner.

"Last week a boy suffering with a peculiar kind of throat trouble was brought into a first floor ward. The doctors were very much interested in the case, yet they took special pains never to mention it in the hearing of another patient. But for all the good their caution did they might as well have lectured on the case in every ward, for when the boy died men and women all about the hospital said to the nurses: 'So that poor boy died, did he? I suppose there wasn't much hope for him from the start.'

BIG CONTRACT FOR PAVING IS AWARDED TO LOCAL CONTRACTOR

Portion of Fallowfield Avenue and Portion of Long Alley to be Bricked

AMOUNTS TO $13,000

Three Bid on Work—Council Takes Up Routine Business at Regular April Meeting

One of the biggest paving contracts awarded in years in Charleroi borough was won in competitive bidding by Thomas Arrigo Tuesday night. The contract which was for grading, paving and curbing of Falloweld avenue from Ninth street to the intersection of the street with Lincoln avenue below Tenth, and for the paving, grading and curbing of Long alley between First and Fourth streets and between Edeventh and Eighth streets, will approximate a total expenditure to the borough of $12,000. Three contractors bid on the work, the Hallam Construction company of Washington, the Donora Construction company of Donora and Mr. Arrigo. Arrigo's bid was 50 cents per cubic foot for grading, 65 cents a lineal foot for Fallowfield curbing 60 cents for Long alley curbing and $1.70 a square yard for paving. On the total Arrigo was considerably below the other two.

A petition was received from residents along Lincoln avenue for a sidewalk grade on the upper side of the street between an alley below Eighth and Ninth streets. An ordinance is to be drawn up.

Andrew Ladvinsky complained that water was running over his lot at 931 Meadow avenue. Desire Jacquelin complained that dirt had been dumped so that it damaged his property near Ninth street and Crest avenue.

Burgess George W. Risbeck reported that there were 49 arrests during the month, and that $148.60 had been assessed in fines, $131.60 of which had been paid, the remainder being served out in time. T. R. Eagye borough treasurer, reported the condition in regard to finances for the month as follows:

Balance from last report	$1,181.78

Tax Collector J. W. Mathias reported that he had turned over to the treasury collections for the previous month for 1910 taxes $198.84; for 1911 taxes, $124.91; and for 1912 taxes $209.58.

President W. R. Gaut was in the chair and the members of council present at the meeting were D. R. Duvall, Oscar C. Linn and Frank Riva.

Two of Considerable Importance Pass Second Reading at North Charleroi

At an adjourned meeting of the North Charleroi council two ordinances of considerable importance to the borough passed second reading. They will be taken up again shortly for final consideration. One of the ordinances was for the sewering of the hill district and the other was for the grading and paving of Fourth street from the railroad to the river. Herman Neubling was elected president of council to take the place of David Schafer, resigned.

Miss Bina M. West of Port Huron, Mich., national leader of the Ladies of the Maccabees, will be the guest of Monongahela Valley Hives, Friday, April 11th at Donora at 2 o'clock, when a large class initiation and reception in her honor will be held. Miss West is making a tour of the states and the Maccabees of this valley are looking forward to her coming with great interest.

Other distinguished officers who will also be guests are Miss Nellie E. Lounsbury of Warren, great commander of Pennsylvania, and Mrs. Elizabeth Brown of Bradford, past supreme commander.

As a pioneer in the work of establishing the order of the Ladies of the Maccabees of the World, Miss West came to Pittsburg in 1883 and organized Faithful Hive No. 1 in Lawrenceville, which still exists.

As a result of her visit and work at that time ten hives were established in the State. Pennsylvania at present has a membership of 19,000.

HIGH WATER DURING ONE WEEK OF MARCH CUTS COAL BUSINESS

Lock No. 4 Shipments High But Not as High as They Should Have Been--Much Sand and Gravel Go Up Stream

Owing to high water that stopped entirely the movement of coal along the Monongahela river, the month of March was not a record breaker in the coal trade, but it was the best month for shipments since last June. The total amount of coal that passed through Lock No. 4 during March was 18,979,000 bushels. June's record was slightly more being 19,090,000 bushels.

The coal trade was hampered the greater part of last week by a flood the first, it might be stated that had interferred with work since the first of the month.

Sand and gravel business, from down river points continued heavy. There were 65,000 bushels of sand shipped up stream and 133,000 bushels of gravel. There were 767 lockages down and 755 up stream and 405 steamers and 1,564 boats, barges and flats passed up. Of steamers up stream there were 392 and 1,569 boats, barges and flats. The rainfall was 3.22 inches.

Lock No. 4 was not closed the first of the week as notices had been posted it would and for no other reason than the Ohio flood. All the three government boats from the North Charleroi yards, the Slackwater, T. P. Roberts and the Swan are absent on a trip down the Ohio river carrying provisions to flood sufferers. The Slackwater and its crew were to have done the repair work on the inside lock at No. 4 that would have meant temporary closing. The lock will not be closed until the return of this steamer.

Flitters are Busy

Many Families Changing Places of Residence--Charleroi Not Losing Residents

Monday was the sprin gmoving day and "flitters" were busy. One transfer man stated this morning that he had more moving work to do than he knew how to get done, and that the trade was heavier this year than last. Many are changing their residences in the town, but there are few moving away from Charleroi these days. Instead it is understood there are more coming in.

TAKE THE P OUT OF PRINTING

Hence Local Bell Telephone System Has New Name

NEW CENTRAL DISTRICT

Henceforth when a man wishes to write a check for his telephone bill to what is commonly known as the Bell Telephone company he will not have to go through his files and look up his office records to learn just what letters are used in the proper designation of the company. For the name has been changed and one letter of the "C. D. & P. Tel. Co." as it has oftentimes been written, has been erased. "C. D. & P." stands for Central District and Printing.

The letter that has been oslerized from the alphabetical appellation of the busy Bell Telephone company's local system is "P." In official circles the "P" has been standing for "printing." The reason was never very generally known until today when Manager F. B. Burwell at the local office issued a bulletin telling of the change of name. The name is now Central District Telephone Co.

The company was incorporated in 1874 in Pittsburg. That being a central district, the name "Central District" came easy. By special arrangement the company delivered printed messages. Hence the word "printing." At the present time the company isn't in the business of printing and delivering telegrams, that system having been done away by the more recent developments.

The "C. D. & P." established its first central office in Pittsburg on January 1, 1879, and its office in Charleroi on February 8, 1896. The growth of the company since its inception has been astonishing, but then nearly everybody finds a telephone a necessity now. At present there are nearly 200,000 telephones in Central District territory and the whole Bell System includes 7,400,000 subscribers.

California Italian Surrenders Because He "Was Tired of Running Away"

TRAGEDY ON CHRISTMAS

Frank Genoa and Santa Cicero Killed—Trial Expected to Come Up During May Term

Having given himself up because he "was tired running away," Frank Cicero of California was placed in the county jail at Washington Tuesday night in connection with the murder of Santo Cicero and Frank Genoa at California on Christmas morning. His was the tenth arrest.

The tragedy is well remembered. Cicero was found lying in a pool of his own blood at the shop of Charles Darbin early Christmas morning and Frank Genoa was located at his home and sent to a Pittsburg hospital where he later died. Frank Cicero, a brother of the murdered Cicero disappeared with Darbin and others before daylight Chirstmas morning and for a time all trace of him was lost. He was later discovered in Ohio but before he could be arrested he again disappeared.

Tuesday Cicero appeared in California and walked to the office of Attorney Olan Yarnall, and gave himself up. He was later taken to jail. Cicero had already been indicted by the grand jury and will likely be tried with the other suspects at the May term of court.

Cicero says he has been in Philadelphia most of the time. He has been receiving money from the old country, it is understood to enable him to keep out of reach of the officers.

CLUB BILL DEFEATED

Governor's License Measure Loses in State House

NO VOTE FOR SUFFRAGE

Harrisburg, April 2—By a vote of 111 to 77 in the house it was forcibly demonstrated that no club license bill will be passed at this session. Of all the propesed liquor legislation none aroused a bigger storm of protest than the one to license the clubs. From the time it was introduced it was evident that it could not pass and some of the influence in favor of the act was quietly withdrawn.

By breaking a tie vote Lieutenant Governor Reynolds saved the woman suffrage resolution from defeat in the senate. Owing to the absence of

THE BENEFICIENT GAS ENGINE.

According to the current issue of Farm and Fireside, hundreds of thousands of gas-engines are now doing their work on farms, which are adding to the joys and comforts of life as well as efficiency in labor.

"In their varied forms these engines are the fairy workmen of the industrial world. The things which they accomplish today for us would, to our ancestors of a century ago, sound more improbable than do the fairy stories of Hans Anderson or our friend Aesop.

"It pumps the water for the house, barns and pastures. It grinds the feed for poultry, pigs, sheep, cattle and horses. It runs the cream separator, the churn and the washing-machine. By its surplus energy while doing these things it runs a dynamo and charges a storage-battery. Current from this battery is used to light the house and barns, to run an electric fan, run the sewing machine, iron the clothes and heat the incubator.

"An engine will shovel the corn and grain, pitch the hay into the barn, bale the hay, shell the corn, run the fanning-mill, milk the cows while they eat the chopped feed which it has prepared. It will even shear the sheep and clip and curry the horses. And, joy of joys to the farm boy it will turn the grindstone.

"These are but some of the chores which it will do about the house and the barns. In the form of a tractor it goes into the fields and plows, tills, seeds, harvests, thresh, shreds and shells, hauls the crop to town, digs ditches and fills ditches, pulls stumps and hedges and rocks, moves buildings, grades and drags the roads.

"In the form of an automobile it brings joy to all the family. At the close of a hard day's work they can climb into the car and spin around [illegible] a good many miles in half an hour or an hour. They are rested, cooled and refreshed far more than had they sat at home. If [illegible] or some supplies are needed [illegible] car runs into town and back [illegible] less time than it would take [illegible] horse from the field and [illegible] it. And the rest [illegible] Or, if the [illegible] trip [illegible] they rest while he is gone and he too is rested by the trip."

JUST HENS.

There are hens and poultry, and it should be remembered that there is a distinction as well as a difference between the two. Poultry is what you hear the most about, the various breeds, the bench shows, the fancy records, the amount of money spent by amateurs, who go into the "poultry business," the fancy prices of cocks, pullets and pens of the various breeds with as many points on their combs as a bull moose has on his horns. It is in connection with poultry that you hear about incubators, brooders, philos, patent fountains and feeding troughs, cut bone, ground oyster shell, and the various kinds of fancy menus—"scratch," pies, forage and the like That's poultry.

But it is just hens that enables the cold storage people to accumulate millions, and to help the common people solve the problem of living. The plebeian hen, who lays eggs for the family all the week and then furnishes the Sunday dinner when the preacher drops in, is the savior of the nation She is the one who is furnishing the egg production of the country, both for cooking and throwing. She is hatched in the natural way, in the farm barn, or the piano box backyard coop, or any old way for that matter. All the "scratch" she gets is what she does herself in the barnyard or the garden, and "forage" with her is verbal action instead of a material substantive. Yet withal, like the common people, the common every day hen counts in the aggregate and is so numerous that she overwhelms the country with eggs and incidentally develops the cold storage industry.

It is just hens, not poultry, that really counts in the egg production of the country and in the special dinners when company or the preacher comes

PICKED UP IN PASSING

"When I was a boy," said a Charleroi resident who is an ardent woman suffragist, "the terms suffragist and suffraget were never heard of. The question was always referred to as 'Woman's Rights,' from the fact that at the beginning of the nineteenth century woman in this land of the free was little bette than a chattel, and had practically no more civil rights than a yellow dog. The first movement of the women in this country in the direction of legal recognition as people was for the civil rights for which the men had fought in the revolution and had contended for ever since.

"What is known as the 'Woman's Rights' movement was launched in Seneca Falls, N. Y., in 1848. There a little band of determined women met and formulated a declaration of rights, among which the right to vote was one. What they asked for was the right of women to have personal freedom, to acquire an education, to earn a living, to claim her wages, to own property, to sue and be sued, to make contracts, to testify in court, to obtain a divorce for just cause, to possess her children, to claim a fair share of the accumulations during marriage, to vote.

"Incidentally the right to vote was subordinated to the last, as some of the other rights were pressing. It may be interesting to know that practically all of the rights which the women contended for at the Seneca Falls convention, save the right to vote, have been incorporated into law in the most of the states, and the right to vote has been granted by nine of them.

"For twenty years Julia Ward Howe, autho of the "Battle Hymn of the Republic," appeared before each session of the Massachusetts legislature with a delegation of women to demand legal rights in the children they had borne. The law in Massachussets then vested the legal ownership of the child in the father, as it still does in some of the states

"They say the place for woman is in the home, but what about the 6,000,000 women and girl wage earners which the census shows to be in this country who have no homes? Turkey is a fair example today of a country where woman has no legal rights and there is not a right thinking person who does not advocate the wiping out of that government. No country is really civilized where they degrade the women, and this degradation exists all over this world from the lowest types of the semibarbarous Oriental countries where woman is regarded with never a soul to save, to our own, where we still withold from a portion of our people their God-given rights."

Speaking of woman suffrage L. F. Lybarger, who lectured here Tuesday night, relates how one time the subject was under discussion in a bunch of ward politicans. One of them remarked to the leader:

"Do you think women will have enough intelligence to vote?"

"Well, fellows," said the leader, sizing up the gang, "you know it doesn't take much."

PUBLIC SPEAKING.

And the Necessity For Cultivating the Art of Enunciation

Speaking is one of those arts which people seem to think are unnecessary to study and learn, and the probability is that most speakers of the kind mentioned are blissfully unaware of their inaudibility. Doubtless their voice resounds comfortably in the empty spaces of their own chest and head, and this prevents them from knowing that it does not penetrate to the auditory apparatus of other people.

To be a lecturer it is not only necessary to know your subject, but the art of enunciation and audible delivery needs to be learned also. And the sound of one's voice in one's own ears is a most misleading guide. Such people ought to be trained by being made to read or speak from one end of a large room to somebody teaching them at the other end, when they would soon find out that tones which will pass muster in a conversation are useless in a public speech.

In conversation we carelessly slur half our syllables, leaving our interlocutor to guess them from the context, but where people are too far off to catch the signs. Again, a word pronounced in the ordinary English way—of throwing a strong accent on a single syllable and slurring the other syllables—becomes reduced to a mere monosyllable when said in that manner in a large room.—Theosophical Path.

MADE THE CLERKS WORK.

A Senator Wanted Information and Found a Way to Get It.

"Congress makes lots of unnecessary trouble for the government clerks," said a veteran employee, "but the worst case I know of occurred some years ago. A certain senator asked the comptroller of the currency to tell him how much stock a certain man had in a national bank. He was informed that such information was regarded as confidential and could not be given out.

"'We'll see about that,' said the senator, who was plainly disappointed and displeased.

"Several days later he secured the passage of a resolution calling upon the secretary of the treasury to furnish the senate with the names and holdings of the stockholders in all the national banks in the country. He really wanted to know only the interest of one man in a bank, but he knew that he couldn't get a resolution of that kind through the senate, so he included the stockholders in all national banks.

"It took the entire force of the comptroller's office several weeks to prepare the information, and when it reached the senate nobody paid any attention to it except the author of the resolution, and he merely looked at the mass of papers only long enough to see about the man he was after and then tossed the papers aside. It was an immense lot of work for nothing."—Washington Star.

A Wonderful Toy.

Perhaps the most wonderful toy in the world is owned by a Russian prince, who lavished a fortune of $60,000 on a mechanical theater. The stage is fitted up with every accessory in the shape of scenery and machinery that modern skill has devised, and the actors are figures as large as life, all dressed as sumptuously and appropriately as their living prototypes. The prince's repertoire covers almost all the most popular operas, and it is only necessary to press a button to set the whole marvelous machinery in motion. The actors make their entry on the stage and play their varied parts with appropriate gesture, while a number of phonographs supply the vocal parts in the voices of the leading operatic singers.

Fair Proof.

"I wonder if she cares for me at all?"

"Has she given you no sign?"

"One. Once I saw her setting the clock back when I came to call."—Louisville Courier Journal.

Easy.

"The doctors have finally decided what caused Smith's illness."

"Had a consultation, eh?"

"No: autopsy."—Judge.

Sugar as a Disinfectant.

A custom has grown up in parts of Europe of burning sugar in sickrooms and has been looked upon as an innocent superstition. Investigations, however, have proved the practice a beneficial and scientific one. Professor Trilbert of the Pasteur institute at Paris demonstrated that burning sugar develops formic acetylene hydrogen, one of the most powerful antiseptic gases known. Five grains of sugar in several tests were burned under a glass bell with a capacity of ten quarts. After the vapor had cooled bacilli of typhus, tuberculosis, cholera, smallpox, etc., were placed in the bell in open glass tubes, and within half an hour all the microbes were dead.—Stoves and Hardware Reporter.

An Inspiring Experience.

A lady who must certainly have been related to the late Mrs. Partington recently returned from a seventy day tour of Europe.

To her friends she said with enthusiasm that of all the wonderful things that she had seen and heard she believed the thing she enjoyed most of all was hearing the French lieutenants sing the marseillaise.—Youth's Companion.

HAPPINESS HIS THEME

TIMELY THOUGHTS TOLD

That the way to enjoy life is to live it, not by any undue excesses in the pursuit of happiness but by common sense existance, was the thought of Lee Francis Lybarger, lecturer, who appeared at the Methodist Episcopal church Tuesday night as one of the Charleroi Citizens' Entertainment course entertainers. His lecture was "How to be Happy." It was a great production and contained mental meat enough for half a dozen lectures.

Obviously, Mr. Lybarger reasoned everybody is searching for happiness, what else. Why [illegible] scientific study. "Intensity of emotion—moderation of action" were the two things given as essential to the entire and proper enjoyment of life. That there are numerous "side issues" to these he admitted and proved what they were.

Health and environment were two things given as necessities. "A man watches or should watch his own health, likewise his environment. If he is dissatisfied with his environment, it was suggested he might first change himself and then go in to change the community if he still thought it all wrong. "Boost, don't knock," cautioned Mr. Lybarger. "If you still find your environment is all wrong and you are all right, get out," he said.

Discontentment is a cause of unhappiness. While it is difficult to draw the line between contentment and ambition, Mr. Lybarger said in his wisdom that a line should be drawn that we be not too contented on the one hand with what we have or in the opposite not too enthusiastically ambitious. The too enthusiastically ambitious. The too enthusiastically working so that he never allows himself time or opportunity to really enjoy the products of his labors and the too contented individual never advances.

Mr. Lybarger is possessed of a wonderful store of knowledge and his deductions on the laws of "worldly happiness" come from long and persistent study. He does not preach for wealth or power, although he says these things might be considered as a means to an end. His is the every-day religion of joy with spiritual conception and belief in good things to come. Mr. Lybarger is a man of attainments and his lecture was certainly enjoyed.

PITTSBURG LAD AND FAIRCHANCE BOXER IN FINAL

Pretty boxing exhibitions were seen at Turner Hall Tuesday evening when local supporters of the manly art held a show. The final was fought by Eddie Wimler of Fairchance and Tish Gallagher of Pittsburg. These two lads hustled things in six rounds of about the prettiest ring work that has been seen in the upper Monongahela valley for some time.

Wimler is a good "in" fighter and had a good punch. Gallagher, who is lankier than Wimler is strong on long range boxing. Both men had advantages. If there had been any decision it would have been a draw.

The first exhibition was between the Demarco brothers, lads of 8 and 9 years. They knew how to box and proved it.

Climate Failed; Medicine Effected

It has been absolutely shown that fresh air and good food do help persons suffering from Tuberculosis. It must be admitted that the climate seldom more than "arrested." Something more is needed.

Eckman's Alterative is a medicine for the treatment of Tuberculosis. It has conquered this disease [illegible]. Often these benefits have been obtained where the surroundings were not ideal—yet recoveries resulted. Now we argue that Eckman's Alterative should be used in every case of Tuberculosis, in addition to good, nourishing food and fresh air, which we all need. A remarkable case follows.

Weldon, Ill.

"Gentlemen: Through Eckman's Alterative I have been saved from a premature grave. On December 14, 1904, I was taken with Typhoid Pneumonia. My lungs became very much affected; my sputum was examined and Tuberculosis Bacilli were found. On February 21, 1905, I was advised to go to Fort Worth, Texas. While there an abscess in my right lung broke and discharged. I grew worse, and became very much emaciated. My physician informed me that I must go to Colorado as quickly as possible. I left Texas, June 21 and arrived in Canon City, June 3 very feeble. After being there two weeks my physician informed me that my case was hopeless. Three weeks later I returned home, weighing 103 pounds, the doctor having given me no assurance of reaching there alive.

"On July 14, 1905, I began taking Eckman's wonderful remedy for Consumption. Today I weigh 158 pounds, I am stout and well and can do any kind of work about my grain elevator. I have not an ache nor pain in my lungs, eat well, sleep well, and never felt better."

(Sworn affidavit) ARTHUR WEBB.

Eckman's Alterative is effective in Bronchitis, Asthma, Hay Fever, Throat and Lung Troubles, and in upbuilding the system. Does not contain poisons, opiates or habit-forming drugs. Ask for booklet telling of recoveries, and write to Eckman Laboratory, Philadelphia, Pa., for more evidence. For sale by all leading druggists.

Change of Company Name

On April 2nd, 1913, the name of "The Central District & Printing Telegraph Co." (Bell System), was changed to "The Central District Telephone Co."

The former name, which has been in use since the introduction of the printing telegraph in 1874, was not believed to identify the company with the service which it now renders—and, for the convenience of public and company alike, the new name has been adopted.

From the above date all communications should be addressed and all remittances made to The Central District Telephone Co. No change in the present contract or other relations is necessitated.

How Careless!

A circus man tells a story illustrating how soft hearted and sympathetic some of the ringmasters are when the acrobats get hurt. The heroine of the story was a girl who did the four horse act, the six horse act, the trapeze, and the flying bar, for all of which she received the princely remuneration of $40 a week.

One day she fell forty feet from the trapeze and, landing precipitately and ill advised on her left wrist, broke the bone near the elbow. The ringmaster ran up and sympathized as follows, with certain profane remarks which are here excluded:

falling out of that trapeze? I'm a sor. of a gun if some of you ginks don't try to put a crimp into this show every time we lift the roof."—Popular Magazine.

Marrying Her Debts.

It sounds strange to talk of marrying the wife's debts, but that was a common practice in England years ago, for even before the married women's property act of 1882 in contemplation of law the husband and wife were one, and the husband was that one. Then if the bride owed any debts before marriage they devolved on the newly married husband, and he had to pay the piper. This led to some extraordinary farces being enacted. Women who were overloaded with debts actually got rid of them by marrying some poor bankrupt, imprisoned for debt. These men did not mind whether they were liable for hundreds or thousands, and the "wife" usually paid the "husband" a few pounds for the protection of his name, and then she would snap her fingers at her baffled creditors and gayly set about incurring fresh debts. The law which settled and removed this sort of thing deserves a better title than the colloquial one of "a bass."—London Answers.

Baseball Is Business.

Professional baseball is a business and millions of dollars are invested ... fortunes out of it, but they pay their players higher salaries than 999 out of every 1,000 of them could earn at any other line of work during a similar number of months each year. From a baseball player nothing is required but that he be able to play a good game and keep in condition. Many stars in the old days were able to do little more than sign their names and read big print. A better educated class of men are in the game today, but they are getting more money for their services than they could earn if they followed any one of hundreds of different professions. And remember that many of them stepped right out of college into good paying baseball positions. Could they have done as well financially had they entered banks or tried their hands at the law or medicine?—Ed A. Goewey in Leslie's.

Trouble and a Camera in Cairo.

I perceived that it would be impossible to photograph any of the bazaars of Cairo without very efficient help. By great good fortune I ran across an excellent dragoman a couple of hours later. He could speak English well, and his terms were reasonable. I explained to him what I wanted to do, and he said he could manage it, so I promptly engaged him, and the following afternoon found me again at the bazaars. Here, in spite of almost insuperable difficulties, I secured several good photographs. No sooner had I taken my camera out of its case than I was literally hemmed in by a crowd of curious people, and before the photograph could be taken these had to be kept back and the traffic stopped on either side of the subject being photographed. The difficulties involved may possibly be imagined, certainly not described. Once a native policeman came to my aid, thrashing right and left with a rope end. The ubiquitous small boy, who wears nothing but an abbreviated cotton gown, went off howling. When the photograph had been taken, everybody wanted baksheesh, and my dragoman had to fight off all those not entitled to a fee. I was glad to pay the men who frequently volunteered to keep the crowds back.—Christian Herald.

THE SIMPLE LIFE.

No Trouble For Australian Aborigines to Break Camp.

An Australian aborigine breaks the monotony of his life by frequent visits to other camps, but his preparations for these holidays have a simplicity about them which must appeal to many a worried housewife. It is thus described by Messrs. Spencer and Gillen in "Across Australia:"

"Apart from ceremonies and dances, the one great break in the monotony of life is paying visits to strange camps. Packing up is not a tedious process. The man simply walks out of camp, carrying his spears, spear thrower, boomerangs and shield; the woman takes the youngest child across her hip, balances a pitchi on her head, and, with one arm round the child and a digging stick in her free hand, she is ready for the road. The girl children and younger women look after the puppies, which are never left behind on any account, and, when unable to walk, are carried in pitchis like young babies.

"Two minutes at most is all the time required for an aboriginal family to pack up and start and there is no trouble in regard to the house while the owners are away. If any one chooses to occupy it during their absence he can do so, but the owners will see at a glance who has been in possession while they have been away."

The Oldest Order.

What is the oldest order in existence? The claim is made for that of the holy sepulcher. It appears that no date or the name of a founder can be assigned to the Order of the Holy Sepulcher, though there is a legendary tradition that traces its origin to the time of Charlemagne. In the middle of the last century, however, when the Latin patriarchate of Jerusalem was re-established, the office of grand master of the order was transferred to it by Pope Pius IX, who many years later, in 1868, created by statute three ranks of the order—the grand cross, commander and knight. The costume is a white cloak with the cross of Jerusalem in red enamel. The pope himself is grand master of the order.—Westminster Gazette.

Black Under the Eyes Explained.

"In the north country"—so goes the story in "Sun Babies," by Cornelia Sorabja—"in the month of Kartik is worshiped by the women folk the great and terrible god Baishuma. Lighted lamps must be placed at the cross-roads of the village, under the sacred fig tree, at the shrine of Shiva, and one little lighted lamp is sent adrift on a raft in the village tank. When the lamps have burned low it is good to rub the black from the wicks under the eyes. It keeps away the evil one. So that is the reason to this day we women put the black beneath the eyes."

YOUR AMBITION.

Have You a Clear Cut Idea of the Object of Your Desire?

Several years ago, when I filled a position which brought me many visitors each day and many more letters, at the same time, I was overburdened with requests for advice from persons who wished "to succeed," "to accomplish," "to attain." But, as strange as the statement may seem to you, I can truthfully say that not one in a hundred of these earnest seekers was able to state exactly what he or she really wanted.

They were dissatified and discontented and felt the vague urge of unrest pushing them forward to further endeavor and attainment, but it stopped right there. Ninety-nine out of every hundred did not know what they wanted. They asked not only for advice regarding the means of accomplishment and attainment, but also for information as to what they should really desire.

"Silly," you exclaim. Not a bit of it. I venture to say that you—yes, you who are now reading these lines—are not much better off regarding clear cut ideas and ideals. You want and want and want, of course, but just what do you want? Have you a clearly defined idea and a clear cut ideal of the object of your desire? Honor bright now, have you?—William Walker Atkinson in Nautilus.

A Puzzling Trick.

Take a piece of writing paper about three inches square and with a lead pencil, the point of which has been dipped in water, draw a circle, a square, a triangle or any other geometrical figure. Set the paper carefully on a pan of water, letting it float and leaving the surface dry. Carefully ... until the space within the figure is filled. The moistened pencil lines will keep it from flowing outside the figure. Now place the point of a pin over some point in the figure near the edge. The pin point must penetrate the surface of the water, but must not touch the paper. At once the paper will float around until the pin points directly to the center of the figure. See if you can find out why it does this.

some of the senators the leaders who are engineering the fight for the resolution wanted to postpone final action on it until a later date. This was opposed and a vote to postpone resulted in a tie. Lieutenant Governor Reynolds broke the tie, as he claimed a right to do in this case, and the resolution was postponed until next Monday evening.

The house committee appointed to investigate the sinecures among the employes of the house and senate has reported a plan by which it is claimed a lot of the dead timber can be cut off and save the state $50,000 a year. The committee would abolish the doorkeepers, custodians of the basement, custodians of committee rooms, coat rooms, wash rooms, etc., which have a special employe for each at $6 or $7 a day, and employ two porters to do the whole thing for $3 a day.

An attempt will be made in the senate to restore the old "vest pocket" system of voting at primaries. The elections committee has reported in favor of an act to permit a voter to be given a ballot in an envelope that he can take home and mark. This would be a return to the old system of ward heeling, and would arouse a storm of protest throughout the state if it stands a chance of passing.

SYMPTOMS OF CONSUMPTION Yield to Vinol.

The medical profession does not believe that consumption is inherited, but a person may inherit a weakness or tendency to that disease.

A prominent citizen of Evansville, Ind., writes: "I was ill for five months with a pulmonary trouble, and had the best of doctors; I had hemorrhages and was in a very bad way. Through the advice of a friend I tried Vinol and I feel that it saved my life. It is all you recommend it to be. I believe it is the greatest medicine on earth. I have advised others to try Vinol, and they have had the same results." (Name furnished on request.)

Vinol soothes and heals the inflamed surfaces and allays the cough. Vinol creates an appetite, strengthens the digestive organs and gives the patient strength to throw off incipient pulmonary diseases.

Try a bottle of Vinol with the understanding that your money will be returned if it does not help you.

ALBERT SCHOENER WINNER OF RACE

Three mile running race at the Charleroi Rink Monday night was won by Albert Schoener who finished about five feet ahead of his opponent. McGuire held the lead for two miles, when Schoener passed him. The fine outburst of speed of both boys in the last five laps brought much applause from the spectators. The time was 16 minutes and and 30 seconds. These boys will meet in a five mile race soon.

Hospital Wireless.

"A very efficient system of wireless telegraphy exists in every hospital," said the nurse. "Apparently all patients have the knack of transmitting messages; otherwise the news of serious cases would not travel so quickly and accurately from ward to ward. It is contrary to the rules for hospital attendants to retail gossip, and most of them observe strict secrecy, yet notwithstanding that precaution there is never an interesting case in the building whose history is not known and discussed in the remotest corner.

"Last week a boy suffering with a peculiar kind of throat trouble was brought into a first floor ward. The doctors were very much interested in the case, yet they took special pains never to mention it in the hearing of another patient. But for all the good their caution did they might as well have lectured on the case in every ward, for when the boy died men and women all about the hospital said to the nurses: 'So that poor boy died, did he? I suppose there wasn't much hope for him from the start.'
